Pittsburg, May 19.—Yesterday when the red giants drove their spikes into the westward toboggan and stopped for a breathing spell, just to show they were still in the game. Manager Joyce sent word to the score's best requesting the announcement that Russe would pitch again to-day.

The notice came in the fourth inning, when New York had the game "clipped and riveted."

Last night the management, after considering Doherty's good work, reasoned that a left-handed pitcher ought to be tried again. The Russe arrangement was shifted, and Seymour, the erratic hardball whinger, was ordered to go on the rubber.

When the crowd found that Russe would not pitch it showed its disappointment by booing. The New Yorkers took the first chances at the bat and secured two runs by nice, clean ball.

Joyce and others, including President Freeman, felt confident when Seymour went on the slab. He simply lost himself. The very first pitch hit the batsman. The next inning had gone over the fence if the grand stand hadn't been in the way.

The second batsman secured a base on balls and only one strike was called on the third man at bat, when he also trotted to first.

With the bases full, Donnelly hit a bouncer to the infield. Bill Clark tried to get it, but the ball hopped out of his hand as if the mitt was lubricated, and one run came in.

Then Seymour, to continue the fun for the local roots, made a step ladder wild pitch, and Joyce, whose heart had stopped beating some seconds before, ordered him to the beach. Meekin then went in. The Giants played for the batsmen, allowing two runs to be scored on outs at first. This put the Pirates ahead, and they slanted the ball right and left, batting Meekin up and down, and across the lot.

The change had no more effect on the Giants yesterday. When Gardner had on the Giants yesterday.

Elly's short stop play was a remarkable exhibition. Three times he allowed hard hit balls to strike his mitt, shifted them into his throwing hand while on the run and over-balanced, and snapped them to first time to catch runners.

Gleason, to offset his brilliant game of yesterday, slipped up on two easy bouncers, losing them with his feet. While Meekin was busy, some of the hits were addressed on "SI." In fact, Terman allowed one to go down, being content to get the ball on the first bounce.

In the first inning Van Haltron batted a single over Tannehill's head. Terman beat out a bunt, and Joyce secured. Van Haltron scored on George Davis's fly to Donovan. Gleason batted a single to left, and Terman scored the second run.

In the second, after Terman was forced by Warner's Meekin walked. Van Haltron died to Smith and on Terman's single to left Warner stole home. Warner's triple and Meekin's double in the seventh earned another, and the run in the ninth was on Holmer's and Warner's singles and two outs.

The people of New York would not care to express any agony that would be inflicted on the Yankees by the Pirates' runs were scored. They couldn't get away from the base, and played a fast and furious hit and run game and everything else. Score:

Some of the Tigers Hurt.
Princeton, N. J., May 19.—Princeton defeated Franklin and Marshall in baseball to-day, and the score, 21 to 0, is an eloquent proof of the Tigers' superiority. The Pennsylvanians were really weak in the field, and totally unable to hit Princeton's pitchers, while home players experienced little difficulty in finding Brown's curves for singles and for an occasional double.

Two of the Princeton players were injured. Catcher Kater received a bruise on the hand from a foul ball, and left fielder Easton hurt his shoulder in sliding to second. Kater will be able to play in the Georgetown game Saturday, but Easton's injury may prevent him playing for the rest of the season.
